SAIGON (AP) - North Vietnam announced today it is suspending the release of American prisoners of war until the United States and South Vietnam honor all parts of the peace agreement.

Bui Tin, the spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation in Saigon, called for strict application of the Loi, had been summoned to Hanoi "for Cong have released 163 American cease-fire, the release of civilian prisoners held by the South Vietnamese and an end to harassment of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong members of

Paris peace conferees draft pact

PARIS (AP) — Legal experts at the Paris conference on Vietnam were drafting a declaration today to give the peace agreement the moral backing of the conference participants.

The 12 foreign ministers were expected to sign the declaration by the end of the week.

American officials said the conference, which opened Monday, appeared to be approaching a consensus. Stressing their readiness for compromise, Western officials said the ministers may agree to endorse sections of the agreement and pledge their governments to its strict observance.

Meanwhile, the ministers were continuing policy statements made by each delegations. Six ministers, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, The Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh and Canada's Mitchell Sharp spoke Monday.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home and the foreign ministers of North and South Vietnam were among the six speakers scheduled today.

The speeches Monday disclosed wide East-West differences over how to enforce the cease-fire agreement signed on Jan. 27.

Despite the indications that both sides were eager to seek a compromise, Western conference officials said there would be some tough bargaining over the proposed declaration.

Rogers urged the creation of a "simple mechanism" under which the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision could report violations of the cease-fire.

Rogers expressed sympathy with the Canadian demand for an effective reporting procedure. Sharp had warned the conference that Canada would pull out of the commission by April 30 unless such a procedure was established. The agreement calls for international "guarantees" but does not spell out what this means.

The state lottery funds bill was introduced by a bi-partisan group of 38 legislators. The lead sponsor on the measure was Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor.

The lottery proposal will face voters May 8. There has been speculation the money would be used to help finance a Vietnam veterans bonus.

The measure dealing with uniformed public employes, such as police and firemen, would provide for fines of $100 to $5,000. It would apply to state, city, county or township employes. The bill was introduced by Rep. Ronald H. Weyandt, D-43 Akron, a former deputy

A Senate bill offered by Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, would boost truck speed limits to five miles below the car speed limits on the state's highways.

Among other bills offered are those that would:

-Eliminate the explanation required of persons desiring to vote an absentee

-Enable individuals to file court action against violators of state pollution laws.

Extend the homestead exemption for persons 65 or older to house trailers as well as homes.

-Add another judge to the Geauga County Common Pleas Court.

MRS. LOUISE RODGERS

Mrs. Rodgers appointed to hospital board

Mrs. Robert H. (Louise) Rodgers of 5365 Locust Grove Rd., was appointed Monday to a six-year term on the Fayette County Memorial Hospital Board. The appointment was made by the Board of County Commissioners and will become effective Thursday.

Mrs. Rodger, Democratic committeewoman from the 6th Congressional District, is one of three Democrats on the six-member board. She will replace Gene Mark.

Commissioner Robert Mace said the Board of Commissioners, in making the appointment, believed that one member of the hospital board should be a woman. Other members are Dr. Thomas J.

Persinger Jr., Donald P. Woods and Milbourne Flee. In other action Monday, the commissioners approved a request by Mrs. Jane Hyer to attend a meeting of the

The board also approved a request by County Recorder Lorie M. Armbrust to attend a meeting of the Ohio Recorders Association Executive Committee meeting in Columbus on Wednesday.

Standby lottery slated March 8

WASHINGTON (AP) - A lottery for a standby military draft will be held here on March 8 even though it is unlikely that anyone in the lottery will be drafted.

The Selective Service System said the men receiving lottery numbers will be those reaching age 19 during 1973; that is, all men born in 1954

"For the first time since the lottery was instituted in 1969, the men receiving lottery numbers will not face the prospect of possible induction into the armed forces," a statement said.

Strange visitors in prehistoric times?

Outer space astronauts once here, author says

By TERRY RYAN Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Erick von Daniken insists that alien astronauts visited the earth in ancient times. To back him up, he has a pair of worldwide best sellers that have recently become paperback phenomena in this country.

'Maybe not all the theories in my books are correct," von Daniken said in an interview here Monday. "But there is no doubt that we were visited from outer space long ago."

Von Daniken, 37, a Swiss innkeeper by trade with no formal higher education, wraps an old theory with new words in his books.

The theory is that visitors from other worlds landed on earth in prehistoric times, created the rudiments of human civilization and departed. Recast by von Daniken in the jargon of contemporary technology, the visitors become astronauts and their vehicles become nuclear rockets. "Chariots of the Gods?" and "Gods From Outer Space," von Daniken's books, were published in Europe in the late 1960s. Translated into 32 languages, they have now sold more than 20 million copies, according to The Trade News Service, a publishing The American editions, published in 1970 and 1971, enjoyed relatively good

Sales soared. From nowhere, "Chariots of the Gods?" suddenly appeared as the

Saccharin tests show rat tumors

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration says rats that were fed saccharin in carefully controlled government studies have developed suspicious bladder tumors.

But the agency adds that its scientists have not determined whether the tumors are cancerous, which would force a ban on the only artificial sweetener remaining on the market.

Cyclamates were banned in 1969 under the so-called Delaney Clause in the law prohibiting any food additive that causes cancer in man or animals.

Virgil O. Wodicka, director of FDA's Bureau of Foods, confirmed the preliminary saccharin study results in an interview Monday.

He said the FDA findings will be transmitted to the National Academy of Sciences, which is under contract to evaluate the sweetener's safety and its role in treating certain metabolic Even if the bladder tumors are found

"We're not going to take any action until we get a recommendation from the academy," Wodicka said.

Last year the FDA removed saccharin from the list of additives generally recognized as safe, and recommended that the average adult's daily intake be limited to one gram.

One gram is the equivalent of 60 small saccharin tablets, or seven 12ounce bottles of the standard diet soft drink, the FDA said.

Panel wants domestic funds freed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to cut off foreign aid April 30 unless President Nixon releases $4.5 billion approved by Congress for domestic programs.

The committee attached that provision Monday to a bill authorizing $1.55 billion in military aid over the next four months.

The bill, which also prohibits spending of appropriated funds for rehabilitation of North Vietnam without congressional approval, will be ready for Senate floor debate later this week. The measure authorizes military-aid grants to 64 countries.

But the bill would cut off foreign-aid commitments after April 30 unless Nixon allows full spending of appropriated funds for the departments of Agriculture, Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare.

The amendment was sponsored by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of Foreign Relations, on a 9-7 vote along party lines.

As a weapon in the fight against inflation. Nixon is refusing to spend appropriations earmarked for various domestic programs in an attempt to hold down government spending. Both houses of Congress are involved in a battle with the White House over this impoundment practice.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who set spending priorities without item veto by the president, said he voted against the proviso tying foreign aid to domestic spending, on grounds it was an attempt by foreign-aid opponents to kill the program.

In a related development, the Senate approved an extension of foreign-aid spending until April 30. The same resolution carries continuing spending authority for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments until the end of the current fiscal year

The spending bill was returned to the House, which had been willing to allow continued expenditures in both areas until June 30.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has signaled moreflexible enforcement of its 5.5-per-cent wage guideline during this year's heavy calendar of labor negotiations.

The White House announced Monday that, while the 5.5-percent standard will remain on the books, it also will use as a wage-behavior guide a broadly worded statement issued by an advisory panel of top labor and business

Nowhere in the statement was there any mention of 5.5 per cent as a stan-

Committee, a 10-member panel that includes AFL-CIO President George Meany, called for the average rate of pay this year to be "consistent with the goal set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year.' The panel added that no single standard or wage settlement "can be equally applicable at one time to all parties in an economy so large, decentralized and dynamic. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and John Dunlop, director of the Cost of work but denied it meant an end to the 5.5-per-cent standard.

Shultz said in an interview that he regards the committee's carefully worded document as "a very strong statement." He said the government will use it as a basic guide in looking at wage contracts this year. But neither Shultz nor Dunlop would give much detail on how the administration would use the committee's statement in conjunction with the 5.5 standard in enforcing wage controls this year.

Dunlop said there had always been flexibility in administering wage controls, noting that some boosts during the past year topped 7 per cent with the standard added credence to

"We are only asking that all parties respect all the clauses. The failure to do this has put the Joint Military Commission at an impasse. The United States is responsible for the total application of the agreement."

Tin said the North Vietnamese decision was telephoned by Hanoi's chief delegate to the Joint Military Commission, Maj. Gen. Le Quang Hoa, to the senior U.S. representative, Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, and the South Vietnamese member, Lt. Gen. Du Quoc Dong.

Tin said the critical problems preventing the commission from carrying out its peacekeeping mission would be taken up in detail at a meeting

Wednesday. However, a U.S. spokesman said Hoa told Woodward he "had various problems and communications difficulties— we were not told that a decision had been made not to release the prisoners.' "There was no detailed explanation as to why the prisoner exchange had not taken place," the spokesman added. "It was just general problems and communications difficulties. There will be a meeting of chiefs of delegations tomorrow, and presumably we will go into the whole question again." The spokesman also disclosed that Hoa had requested an American plane to fly to Hanoi Tuesday to pick up one of his deputies.

"We had the clear understanding that the man that we were to pick up was carrying the list of American prisoners to be released," the spokesman said. "We offered to pick him up, but we never received a reply from the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. They said they would have to check with Hanoi, and we never got a reply.

Totally automated banking relies heavily on television

By JERRY ESTILL

Associated Press Writer NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A New Orleans bank with a goal of being totally automated already handles all teller-customer transactions at two of its branches by closed-circuit tele-

Although other banks use television, mostly for operating drive-in windows, International City Bank says it is the first in the nation to have total-television installations and expects eventually to put all its tellers in front of cameras or replace them with automatic machines.

The tellerless machines — linked to the bank's computer - would enable a customer to handle the most common banking transactions without any contact with a human. The customer would insert his coded card into the machine, punch in four identification numbers and make his deposit, withdrawal or whatever.

"These units can be placed in hotel lobbies, shopping centers and, to be absurd, even street corners," said bank president Eads Poitevent in a recent speech. "Anywhere there are people.'

Ray Samuel said the commitment to machines is not gimmickry, but sound banking philosophy.

As in other banks, International City's two-way, closec-circuit television system is coupled with pneumatic tubes for moving money and documents between teller and customer. What sets the New Orleans bank apart is the use of the system to replace the traditional walk-up windows in its lobbies.

In a typical installation, a customer with routine business walks to a panel with a 12-inch television screen, a speaker, a button to summon the teller and a hatch to the pneumatic tube. A telephone is provided in case the customer wants a private conversation with the teller, who is in a sealed, vaultlike room and may be handling two or three "windows.

Each total-television branch bank still has a manager, an assistant manager and one or two other persons in the lobby to help with new accounts or other transactions not normally handled by a teller.

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — The prosecution Richard Sprague's Philadelphia office. Sprague's assistant, William Wolfe, was asked if Boyle would be served with one of the subpoenas. "There's no question about that,"

Wolfe said. "He has agreed to come voluntarily.' Also testifying at Prater's trial will be former UMW secretary-treasurer

John Owens, Wolfe said. Prater and Albert Pass, the 58-yearold secretary-treasurer of the union's District 19 from Middlesboro, Ky., are charged with funneling union money to the triggermen in the slayings of union rebel Joseph Yablonski and his wife and daughter. Pass is to stand trial on state murder charges in the case later this year. The Yablonskis were shot to death in their Clarksville, Pa., farmhouse on Dec. 31, 1969. The trials of Prater and Pass were moved here from Washington County after the state Supreme Court ordered a change of venue.

Sprague informed defense attorney H. David Rothman Monday that he intends to call an additional 24 witnesses in the case. Earlier, the prosecution entered a list of 79 potential witnesses for the record.

The witness list was ordered by county Judge Edward Carney after Rothman successfully argued that the names were needed to prepare an adequate defense for his client. Rothman would not say how many witnesses he planned to call. Seven persons have been arrested in the case to date. Of those, only Prater and Pass are awaiting trial.

Three of those charged have pleaded guilty, while two others have been convicted and sentenced to death.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - A 'courtroom of the future' is being built for a Sacramento law school experiment aimed at boosting security, curbing disruptions, aiding news coverage and making the jury's job easier.

"The practice of law in most courtrooms today is about as modern as performing surgery in a barbershop," says Gordon Schaber, dean of the University of Pacific's McGeorge Law School where the courtroom is scheduled for completion in June. The $464,000 facility, which Schaber describes as the first of its kind in the nation, will be used for real trials as well as simulated trials for training law students and law officers.

Stock prices open higher

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock market prices opened higher today as Washington announced the composite index of leading economic indicators rose in January.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials was up nearly a point and advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange took a slim lead over

The Commerce Department announced that the index, which often foreshadows broad movements in the economy, gained 1.2 per cent last month. But it added that the previously reported gain for December was substantially revised downward.

On Monday the Dow slipped more than 12 points before recovering a bit to close down 6.10 at 953.79.

Analysts said most of the decline was due to skittish investor reaction to increases in the bank prime rate to 61/4 per cent approved by the Federal Reserve over the weekend. Many investors feared the jump in interest rates would stifle current business ex-

Among the active issues on the Big Board today were Levitz Furniture, recovering from a loss it suffered after the New York State attorney general said he was forwarding results of a study of the company to the federal government for possible action. Levitz was up 3/8 to 181/4.

The most active issue was Texas Utilities, steady at 31, followed by volatile Fairchild Camera, down 134 to

But that's not the picture at all. regional organizations in the Ohio

While the financially troubled Penn Central, the nation's largest, has been in and out of the news almost weekly during the past few years, nine of the country's 10 biggest lines have been making money.

They intend to remain profitable, too, mainly by investing hundreds of millions of dollars a year in their capital plants.

But paradoxically, a large percentage of Americans believe variously that the industry is depressed or on the verge of collapse or about to be taken over by the federal gov-

To begin with, people have feelings and freight does not. The railroads maintain that transporting people is unprofitable. Riders have been told they are a burden, and they've reacted vociferously.

The biggest clamor of all has come from commuters and short-distance travelers in the Northeast and Midwest, which together have the greatest concentration of people in the nation.

Freight continues to pay its way. One line, Southern Railway, has had seven straight years of record-high income, and last year reported pretax profits of more than $100 million on $700 million distorted image of the industry, and the

A fascinating explanation for the reasons why one line prospers while others declare bankruptcy, is offered by Frank Barton, assistant to Southern's president. The story of Southern's success begins, said Barton, with the South losing the Civil War. Unlike other vanguished foes, the South was not the recipient of federal generosity. During the Reconstruction, he said, very little reconstruction was undertaken.

It was during this time that the nation's basic rail system was built to its present size. Because industry was largely situated in the Northeast, rails proliferated there. And because the Midwest and West were growing, lines were extended there.

In the East and Midwest, the picture is different. Industrial and traffic patterns have changed, and now there is much unneeded track. In fact, he claims, between 10 and 25 per cent of all rail mileage in the country is un-Not so in the South. While it was considered a poor investment at the turn of the century, it is now growing faster than any other geographical region of the country, much faster than the Northeast. Barton wants it understood that history alone is not responsible for the Southern's success. "We keep most of our earnings in the business, and we concentrate on railroading rather than unrelated fields," he says.

Cost control, plant modernization, training programs and modern marketing techniques contribute, he maintains, and he cites the example of

"Big John" to illustrate the latter. Big John is a 100-ton covered hopper that cut 60 per cent off the line's grain shipping costs. Protests by water carriers delayed use of the cars for four years until a Supreme Court decision

Trend to smaller cars

There is little evidence that America is getting over its love affair with the automobile, though some profess to see indications of this. There is substantial evidence of a trend away from dependence solely on big cars with excessive horsepower and a king-size thirst for gasoline.

Recognition of this came the other day from rather an unexpected source, a General Motors executive. Thomas M. Fisher, administrative assistant to GM's vice president for environmental, activities, told the Arizona Safety Council he foresaw a trend toward smaller cars.

Noting that such vehicles have smaller engines but lack the roominess of their big brothers,

Fisher observed, "We're an energydependent economy, and the steps we have to take to protect the energy may not be to our liking." As a general thing that probably will prove to be true; Americans are used to being profligate with energy. and may find it hard to adjust to comparative austerity.

It has already become evident, however, that many Americans enjoy getting about in small and medium-sized cars. They find such cars adequate for their needs, and they relish the savings in fuel consumption and maintenance.

The way is being paved, as it were, for a time when small cars become the norm. As a society we may discover collectively what small car owners are finding out individually: it is quite feasible to enjoy life without a a highway behemoth.

That will fit right in with the need to conserve our resources by using less metal and rubber for cars, and consuming petroleum at a slower

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

It all works fine

The one unforgivable sin that the United States commits - at least in the eyes of the intellectuals - is that it works.'

Thus a distinguished European statesman put it during my recent trip.

"For example," he continued, " a few hundred kilometers from here (Zurich) Italians and Germans are busy tearing down streets signs. It seemed like an intelligent compromise in an area contested by Austria and Italy to put the signs in both langauges, but extremists at both ends want all or nothing. Belgium has the same

"Do you realize," he added, "that the Bretons have been engaged in some violent separatist activities in France? And the basques too? The Bretons are up in arms because under French law they cannot give their children ethnic names (Breton is a version of Gaelic). It's rather as though American law forbade Negroes from giving their children Muslim first names. And I hardly need to mention Ulster."

"WHAT YOU Americans have, without realizing it," he concluded, "is one of the most stable societies in history. You absorb and thus neutralize your potentially disruptive elements: a movement that in Europe would become an ideological cult becomes in the United States a club that meets

days, and gets letters of felicitation from the President.

After the past decade, I confess that my fundamental optimism about the United States has on occasion been shaken a bit. The combination of the civil rights movement, the upsurge of youth, and the anti-war militancy often seemed to be bringing the nation close to the abyss.

One reassuring thing was that the prophets of "revolution" and "disintegration" were intellectuals whom I had known for years and their compasses were locked on True South. That is, in specific terms, if they predicted X, one could invariably count on the occurrence of anti-X. But first in Washington and then on the campus the noise-level was horrendous: it was like being in a steel drum being hit with baseball bats.

This discussion with an impartial observer who spent years as a diplomat in the United States, was therefore reassuring. When, for instance, I raised the question of turmoil in American colleges and universities, he asked me, "How many universities do your leftists control?'

Now, although various elements of the counter-culture have gained considerable power within certain schools, the correct answer is "none." They may have a veto power, they may regularly, wears funny clothes on feat drive non-conforming faculty members insane and send despairing administrators off to religious retreats. But no university is in fact controlled by the leftists. He chucked and said: "I could name you a dozen in Europe all state schools, of course - which are now the private property of the ex-

MOREOVER, he went on to point out, we Americans tend to blame everything on a war in Vietnam: drugs, venereal disease, inflation, student unrest. But everywhere in Europe precisely the same problems exist. Indeed, the United States has the lowest inflation rate of any major industrial power, the student riots in France made Berkeley look like a fraternity prank, Sweden has the highest venereal disease rate going, and the drug crisis exists across the board. "And," he noted, "we have had no war in Vietnam.'

As I have suggested here before, we Americans have a fondness or flagellation, a rather likeable characteristic. Yet, ever so often it is worthwhile to stand back a bit and look at what we have accomplished in a positive way.

There is much left to be done, but if we look around the only world we have, we can take some modest pride in our accomplishments.

Supreme Court the shadow of secrecy and suppression will be felt at every level of government.

refusing to disclose confidentiality of sources — with two notable cases here in California — state courts are beginning to close their doors to the coverage of trials that would normally be open. Those most concerned with keeping the channels open describe it as a contagion of suppression

What is most impressive in the great gray cliff of the Federal Courts Building here is the power of the federal government as it has been marshalled in this case. It is all there the FBI, the Department of Justice, the top military — felt if not seen in the subdued aqueous light, the careful silence of Courtroom No. 9.

AS A manifestation of that power the defense has just charged the prosecution with deliberately withholding a document that would have refuted testimony on the damage done to national security by release of the Pentagon study of decision-making during the Vietnam war. The document was an affidavit by an analyst for the Central Intelligence Agency stating that figures giving Communist strength at the time of the Tet offensive in 1968 had been fabricated in December of 1967. Lt. Gen. William G. Depuy, a government witness, had previously testified that releasing the Joint Chiefs of Staff study of the Communist order of battle would have helped Hanoi.

At times, as in this instance, the atmosphere in Courtroom No. 9 is strangely unreal. The phantoms of that

The record piles up in a whole library of volumes. At 3 a.m. each day the transcript of the day before is With the hailing of reporters for available. The young volunteers working for defense counsel collect it and comb it over preparatory to more of the same.

The cost is astronomical. At last report the defense was $60,000 in the hole. Chief Defense Counsel Leonard B. Bouding has three associates and Russo has two lawyers. A small army of researchers and secretaries does the spade work. Money to foot the bill is raised by a variety of fund-raising devices always falling behind the need.

The prosecution having presented the case against the defendants in two months, the defense now takes over. Six to seven weeks will be taken up with a procession of witnesses who will testify not only that no damage was done to the national security but that Ellsberg and Russo served the right to know in exposing the bland optimism of the decision-makers in public as contrasted with their continuous escalation of the war.

THE SERVICE to the nation in the revelation of the Pentagon Papers, the defense will contend, is to show the catastrophe of secret and private presidential wars — in this case an unwinnable war that divided the nation, alienated world opinion and threatened at times a third world holocaust. In a sense the verdict will be passed on the war itself, those who prosecuted it and those who opposed it.

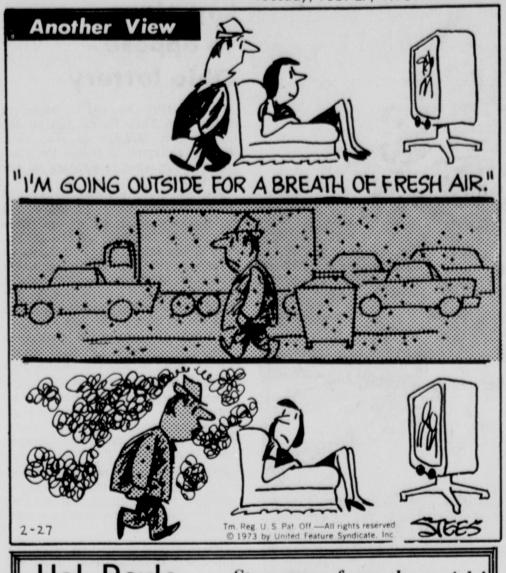

Week after week, month after month the jury sits in impassive silence listening to technicalities of the law that seem at times to confuse even the battery of lawyers on opposing sides of the counsel table. Ten women and two men — the latter is one black and one Chicano — are average citizens such as jury panels turn up . . Judge William Matthew Byrne, Jr., is crisp, matter of fact, almost invariably overruling the objections of defense counsel to the interrogation of chief prosecutor David R. Nissen.

HOW THESE 12 men and women can separate the emotions of the war, their prejudices whether dove or hawk, from the allegation of criminality is the question that will press harder as the day of summation and then decision draws nearer.

The prosecution holds to the narrow line of criminality, making out the defendants, both with scholarly attainments and research backgrounds, as thieves and saboteurs.

In the weeks ahead the defense will try to paint a portrait of men motivated by stern conscience to reveal to the nation the duplicity and deceit that generated the tragedy of Vietnam. The fate of the two individuals to one side, the verdict when it comes can only accentuate the divisiveness which is one of the tragic consequences of the

DEAR ABBY: Some of my best friends are Jews, but I can't figure out something.

Once I went to a Jewish funeral service and I wore no hat. (I don't even own one.) After I entered, a little man ran after me and offered me a little skull cap, indicating that I should wear it. Of course I put it on. I looked around and noticed that all the other men were wearing one.

On another occasion I attended a Jewish wedding which took place in another temple, and this time nobody wore anything on their heads.

Are Jews supposed to wear something on their heads for funerals, but not for weddings? How about for regular Sabbath services? What's the rule? Please set me straight

DEAR CURIOUS: Covering the head is an old Jewish custom. During the course of Jewish history, especially in Western Europe, and now in North America, many Jews have felt that this custom is no longer required; therefore, differing patterns of ritual

Among Orthodix (the most religious) Jews, the skull cap (or "yarmelke") is worn not only for prayer but for all the daily activities. Conservative Jews observe this custom only during

However, with in the reformed movement, various practices are observed, depending upon the particular custom of the congregation.

DEAR ABBY: I am an executive in my early 50s. My wife died three years ago and ours was a beautiful marriage. I am not looking for another wife, but I do enjoy female companionship occasionally. A friend has a secretary who caught my eye. She is 26 and a really beautiful girl who dresses in wonderful taste. I asked her for a date, and took her to one of the finest places for dinner. She was dressed like a queen and I was proud to be seen with her. I offered her a cocktail and she said, "I'll have a When I realized she wasn't joking, I ordered her a beer, which she guzzled in nothing flat. When it came time for dinner she asked me to order for her, so I ordered a broiled lobster. When it was served she asked me how to eat "the thing." (She had never seen one eaten before.) She made an awful mess of it, and threw the shells all over the table. During the evening, some terribly vulgar language came out of that beautiful mouth. I was shocked. The reason I'm writing is to tell you this was the third such disappointment I've had in a month!

What's the matter with the young women of today, Abby? Are they typical? Sign me.

NOT THAT LONESOME IN

DEAR NOT: No. But you might have better luck with ladies nearer your own DEAR ABBY: Last year, when my son was three years old and attending preschool, he came home with his little face all black and blue. I asked him what happened and he told me the teacher did it. I called the teacher and she flatly denied it. She said he had fallen and hit his face on a chair. Now my son is in the same class this year, and I have just been told by an eyewitness that my son was telling me the truth. That teacher did hit him in the face and caused those bruises! And it seems that mine isn't the only child this teacher has left marks on. Abby, what would you do if it were

your child? CONCERNED PARENT

DEAR CONCERNED: I would enlist the support of the eyewitness and bring the matter to the attention of the teacher's superior.

Camp Fire Potlatches set for March 13 and 20

The dates for the annual potlatches were announced when the Paint Valley Council Camp Fire Board met Monday night in the CF office. The Bluebird Potlatch will be March 13 and the one for Camp Fire Girls on March 20, both to be held at Mahan Hall.

Frank Snaderson, president of the board, conducted the business session. Those present were Mrs. Sanderson, Floyd Cotner, Dick Maddux, Dick Immell, Miss Sandy Fackler, Mrs. Charles Zinn, Mrs. Fred James, Mrs. Ralph Tate, Mrs. Gene Sagar, Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. Ed Fisher, Mrs. here to attend.

Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Allen McClung, Mrs. Don Wood, and Mrs. Donald

It was announced that Mrs. Wheat will conduct training sessions for leaders from 7 until 9 p.m. April 2 in First Presbyterian Church. Nursery facilities will be available.

The next leaders' meeting will be March 27 at Grace United Methodist Church.

On March 28, a conference will be held in Columbus for CF leaders. Plans were tentatively made for three or four

Miss Marian Christopher extended the hospitality of her home to members of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. John Case opened the meeting with devotions.

Mrs. Cloyce Copley conducted the meeting and a moment of silence was observed for the late Miss Ruby Mc-Bride, a long and devoted member of WCTU. A letter from the VA Hospital at Chillicothe, thanking the group for the gifts for veterans for the holidays. was read. It was reported that most of the yearly dues have been paid. Mrs. Eldon Bethards received an invitation inviting the group to a one-day convention to be held in the Baptist Church March 1 at Hillsboro. The theme of the day will be "Share in Prayer Circles."

Miss Mabel Briggs, program leader, was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Hays and Miss Christopher. Miss Briggs opened the program by reading a poem "February Flowers," and Mrs. Hays read an article "Students Asking for Liquor in Dorms." Miss Briggs discussed the drug problem.

A Columbus high school senior estimates that 25 per cent of high school students use drugs and that all of the high schools in Columbus have the same problem, Miss Briggs said. She also declared the wine industry is doubling and the housewife who is serving something dainty should remember that wines contain 12 to 22 per cent alcohol.

Miss Christopher read an article that said the "only way to be responsible about drinking is not to drink at all." A dessert course was served by the

Dress-up experiment at college

WILMINGTON - Judy Brown, a Wilmington College senior, made her way across campus wearing an attractive blue dress. A pair of male students did a double-take and one yelled, "She's got legs!"

Arriving at the cafeteria, she moved along the slide rail placing cereal and milk on her tray with unconscious effort. Proceeding to the corner table as usual she joined a group of bluejeaned friends where the normal breakfast conversation was in progress. Suddenly it stopped. A few looks were exchanged and then a classmate broke the silence, "Why the dress?" Another added, "Susie Sorority?"

This was a beginning. Three more days of "dressing-up" followed the initial confrontation - all recently by Mrs. Cheryl B. Miller's sociological theory class. Students of the class agreed to wear dress apparel for four consecutive days without revealing the reason to fellow students and professors. The experiment gave supporting evidence to an earlier classroom theory outlined by Mrs. Miller, assistant professor of sociology. "The way you dress usually has an effect on the way people react to you,"

And so it was found by the students involved. Rob Denson, a junior from S.

Orange, described his participating in a personal way. "When I appeared in the student union wearing a sport coat I felt terribly conspicuous. Sort of phony." Continuing he added, "It effected not only my social image, but my self image as well."

Judy Goldman, a senior from Minneapolis, speaks of the unifying force that the experiment had on the class. "When we would see one another in a crowd, we would often give a signal. It would be a nod or a wink-something to show that we shared the secret. It drew us closer toegther.

Some students recall positive reactions anf flattering compliments, directly resulting from their new manner of dress. Others mentioned negative responses. One girl described how her triends began to exclude her from various discussions. "I guess they thought I wouldn't approve," she explained.

Another student tells of how her roommate, unaware of the experiment, decided to wear a dress on the third

The various reactions depended, of course, on the people involved; but, all of the participating students agreed that the changing dress style put a new twist in their daily lives. One student labeled it a refreshing change; but, when it was over most were content to loosen their neckties or exchange high heels for time-worn sneakers.

For a different salad dressing for a fruit salad, beat a little salad oil and lemon juice into cranberry jelly. Finely grated onion (pulp and juice) may be added.

When hard-cooked eggs are cooked too long or at too high a temperature, they may have a dark ring of color between the yolk and the white.

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

The battle for control of trumps is often the most important single factor in the play of a hand. The defenders concentrate on trying to run declarer out of trumps, while declarer bends every effort to guard his trump position in order to stop the defenders from cashing their side winners.

Here is a typical case. Assume West leads the queen of clubs, covered by the king and ace, and East returns a club.

Declarer ruffs and leads the A-K of trumps, learning of the 4-1 trump division. South is now in serious trouble and, in fact, can no longer make the contract against best defense. Let's say he takes two more rounds of trumps and leads a diamond to the jack, won by East with the ace.

East thereupon returns a club, forcing South to ruff with his last trump. Declarer cashes his diamonds, but must then lead a heart. East takes the ace, returns a club, and South is defeated because he lost control of

Now let's go back to South's play at trick one and have him play the seven of clubs from dummy instead of the

In that case, if West leads another club, he cannot do so without establishing a club trick in dummy and this, in turn, prevents the defenders from effectively shortening declarer's trumps. As a result, South eventually makes ten tricks consisting of six trumps and four tricks in the side

If West decides to abandon clubs, after winning the opening lead with the queen, there is no other suit he can play to stop the contract. The effect of ducking the opening lead is that declarer keeps trumps firmly under control and so wends his way home with ten tricks.

Hotel manager finds jury not easy to keep happy

By T. LEE HUGHES Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - One woman worried that her pet parrot might catch pneumonia. One man craved sardines;

another wanted chunky peanut butter. By day, they were jurors in the bribery trial of federal Judge Otto Kerner and his longtime associate, Theodore J. Isaacs. At night and on weekends, the seven women and five men were the concern of General Manager David H. Salene of the Sheraton Inn-O'Hare South, where they were sequestered more than a month. Salene, 31, a 12-year veteran of the hotel business, found that his tenants posed problems not normally caused by overnight guests.

One woman realized she had left her chill-prone parrot at home. A federal marshal drove her back to get it, but she was not satisfied. "He's catching cold," she told

Salene. "That room is full of chills. I few dozen persons, most of them in know he's cold because he told me." To combat boredom, jurors were dining rooms and, on occasion, were taken out for a meal, Salene said. Despite the varied cuisine, jurors made special requests.

"One man had a thing for sardine sandwiches," Salene said. "And would you believe I didn't have one can of sardines in the hotel?'

A shopping trip by a U.S. marshal remedied that, he said. But another marshal's purchase was not as helpful, Salene recalled. When a jar of peanut butter was taken to the juror who wanted it, the man said: "This is creamy peanut butter. I don't eat that. All I eat is chunky peanut

Kerner and Isaacs were convicted Feb. 19 in U.S. District Court of conspiracy, bribery, fraud and income tax evasion in connection with a race-track stock transaction while Kerner was governor of Illinois from 1961 to 1968. Kerner also was convicted of perjury.

Salene said he was not sure what the bill was for the jurors' stay but the government paid for it all-including the sardines and peanut butter.

NOTICE--GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS TO TAXPAYERS--IMPORTANT

REAL ESTATE stands charged on the County Treasurer's books in the name of the owner January 1, 1972. Property purchased after this date will not on the tax books in the new name until the records are received for the year 1973. The above rates are used to determine the tax on GENERAL PERSONAL property. The return must be filed with the County Auditor between February 15th and April 30th of each year.

In making request for tax bills be sure to give sufficient description so that the property may be located in the records and be sure all real estate is in cluded as the Treasurer is not responsible for omissions.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, Feb. 27, 1973 Washington C.H. (O.) Record-Herald - Page 7

By FRANCES DRAKE Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

(March 21 to April 20)

A hunch could pay off now especially where career matters are concerned. But be sure you are seeing persons and situations in a realistic TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Don't let a moody or emotional person get you down now. Maintain and promote your self-esteem and stress your innately optimistic side. It may not be easy, but it will be necessary. GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21) Try to have a talk with individuals important to your aims. A bit of diplomatic maneuvering could have fine results. But avoid intrigue.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

You should now receive some information which clarifies a financial situation. It may not be all you hoped for, but it will be valuable because it finally gets to the core of truth.

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A new type of work assignment should make your day more interesting than usual. On the personal side, an unexpected gift or invitation will delight you.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept 23.) A good day to contact the opposition and see if you can work out a satisfactory compromise. Be realistic, though, and don't give too much just to get matters off your agenda.

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Stellar influences continue to favor creative interests and stimulate your ingenuity. Also, a good day for seeking favors - especially in mid-morning. SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may be given some new responsibilities. Don't give way to anxiety. Take each matter in turn, handling essentials first. The rest will fall into place. SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Expend energies wisely. There's a tendency now to overtax yourself. Your talent for carrying out assignments against big odds can be cleverly used. CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Be alert to schemers and those offering dubious propositions. Don't allow yourself to be "taken in" by rosy promises, no matter how convincing the promoter may be. AQUARISU

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't disregard little warning signals. Keep your imagaination controlled in work and business deals, in all areas. There's a tendency now to run out of bounds.

PISCES FOR WEDNESDAY, FEB. 28 (Feb. 20 to March 20)

As with Capricorn, you, too, may encounter the deceptive and the unscupulous. Be alert, and don't forsake principles.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly idealistic, a true humanitarian in all your impulses and extremely tolerant toward your fellowman. All of these qualities fit you for work in social service or welfare institutions; also contribute to what could be an outstanding career in medicine or nursing. Your personality is a magnetic one and you are a great lover of the beautiful in life. You could excel as a writer, singer, musician, architect or teacher. Also, having a strong religious bent, you may choose the ministry as a career, in which case you could make a brilliant and inspiring preacher.

District mat tourney looms for MT Friday

Miami Trace's wrestling team will be participating in the rugged combined Eastern and Southeastern District Class AAA wrestling tournament this weekend at Ohio University in Athens.

The Class AAA tournament, in previous years, has been held at Muskingum College, New Concord.

Fourteen teams, seven from the Eastern District and the same number from the Southeastern District, will be battling for honors in the tournament which has preliminary rounds scheduled at 5:30 p.m. Friday. Semifinals and consolation matches will be held at noon Saturday with the finals on tap for that evening. The winners of the tourney will advance to the state tournament which will be held March 9-10.

DOVER HIGH School has been a district champion and perennial toughie the past two seasons and along with Marietta and Steubenville rate as the top wrestling powers. Dover and Steubenville are both Eastern District teams.

Others from the Eastern District include East Liverpool, New Philadelphia, Wintersville, Zanesville and Cambridge. Southeastern District entries are Lancaster, Marietta, Chillicothe, Portsmouth, Meigs, Athens and Miami Trace.

There's a possibility Miami Trace will have seven seeded wrestlers in the tournament, although the seeding meeting has not been held, according to head coach Chuck Wallace Gardner Cobb, Miami Trace's senior strongboy in the 185-pound division, tops the Panther prospects with a gleaming 16-1 record. Others are Keith Earley (19-3), Tom Eddleman (17-5), Jim Reno (14-6), Rick Cassey (13-6), Karl Neiwsenter (13-6) and Alan Fennig (17-7).

Two other possibilities include Donald Dunton (12-8) and Ron Bays (11-

DAYTON — Wilmington's Hurryin' Hurricane blew a bulging halftime lead but turned back Dayton Belmont to register a 52-48 win in the Dayton Class AAA sectional basketball tournament

Head coach Buddy Bell's Wilmington boys held a comfortable 31-19 lead at intermission, but had to fight for its life in the second half when Dayton Belmont opened the third period with 14 unanswered points.

The win, Wilmington's 11th in 19 starts, qualified the Clinton Countians to meet Beavercreek at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

THE BISONS, who were sent to the sidelines with a 4-15 all-games log, tied the score at 31-31 with 3:08 left in the third period, and took its only lead of the game at 33-31 with two minutes remaining in the quarter. Wilmington then reeled off eight straight points to take a 39-33 lead.

Smooth-shooting All-South Central Ohio League forward Robert Raizk who sparked Wilmington with 14 points, hit four free throws in the final two minutes and junior guard Billy McClary added two more to preserve

Cincy Reds open camp; 6 more sign

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — With peace having settled over the baseball world, most of the Cincinnati Reds either were in Tampa, Fla., or on their way there for the start of spring

Pitchers and catchers were supposed to have been there several days ago, but the dispute over a new ownerplayer agreement kept them out of the spring training ball parks.

As players headed for camps the Reds signed six more players, leaving only 17 without contracts. Those not signed included left fielder Pete Rose, who until this season had been the Reds' only $100,000 player, and second baseman Joe Morgan.

Among those coming into the contract fold Monday was center fielder Bobby Tolan, who sat out the 1971 season with a heel injury, but returned last season to garner "comeback record after a miserable start.

player of the year" honors.

Others who signed Monday were pitchers Clay Carroll, Jack Billingham and Ed Sprague and minor leaguers Dave Tomlin and Joaquin Andujar.

No salary figures were given out but Tolan, Carroll and Billingham were all expected to be taking home fatter pay checks in 1973.

Carroll had 37 saves for the Reds in 1972 and Billingham posted a 12-12

Hiram College's five starters hit double figures Monday night as the Terriers went on to defeat John Carroll University 96-95 and clinch at least a tie in the Presidents Athletic Basketball

The Terriers have an 11-1 conference record and only Case Western Reserve is close enough to tie. John Carroll has a 9-4 PAC record.

Kevin Derrick led Hiram with 22 points and 18 rebounds, while Van Geln Neal tallied 18 points.

Defiance upped its season record to 22-3 with a 79-71 victory over Heidelberg. Ken Bush led the Yellow Jackets with 18 points.

Ahead 41-33 at the half, Defiance's defense slackened and Heidelberg tied the score at 41-41. The Yellow Jackets then scored 10 consecutive points to take a comfortable 51-41 lead.

Heidelberg is now 9-11. Rio Grande jumped to an early lead and held on to defeat Central State 72-64. Mike Rouse led the Redmen with 20

Take a look at the calendar. See what I mean? And I bet you haven't put together those slide shows of last year's vacation yet, not to mention all the other photographic fun you planned to do during the winter months. The slides from last summer's trips are still in the boxes they came back in. Now is the time to get them out and put them into the proper order in the projection trays. Get them in a sequence that tells a story. Start the show with some of your best slides. Then be sure to end the show with more of your best slides; 'cause people are most impressed with the first few slides they see in a show and then the last few. Keep that in mind. You may want to add music or sound effects to your slide show. Do it! Don't just think about it. Make your slide show something outstanding. Any idiot can show a bunch of slides of their vacation and then stand there by the projector and say "Now this slide shows the Grand Canyon from the North Rim". Look, dad, if the slide is so poor that the viewer can't tell it's the Grand Canyon trade in your photographic gear for a speed boat. And if you can't put more variety in your slide presentation than that you better get into the classes at CKFN or take up knitting. It's embarrassing to turn up the lights after your slide show and find nothing but empty chairs where your audience had been sitting. But they just won't sit around to be tortured by that same old trite stuff. Even CBS Television is better than that. But not much.

The "Nix on OSHA" committee is making some headway and it is looking like there will soon be a bill in congress to get rid of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. If we can get enough letters in to Washington I'm sure OSHA will soon be just a bad dream. If you haven't stopped in the shop for your free pamphlet on OSHA please do so and get the story on this thing. It affects you.

Fair skies dominant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair weather settled over most of the nation today except for rain on both coasts and isolated activity inland.

Gale warnings were posted for the Oregon and northern California coast. Scattered showers on the central and northern Pacific Coast moved into the intermountain region, but rainfall generally was less than an inch.

Rain also soaked areas from South Carolina to New Jersey and in the northern part was expected to turn to snow. A heavy-snow watch was issued for the District of Columbia and parts of surrounding states.

A few snow flurries whirled about the central Appalachians, and occasional light snow dusted the northern Mississippi Valley region.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 13 at Houlton, Maine, to 64 at Key West, Fla

FUNERAL SERVICE

Funeral services were held Monday, at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H.; for Tom Arnold, a former Milledgeville resident.

While living in Milledgeville, although they had no children, he was very much interested in the Milledgeville Boy Scout Troop 303 and Explorer Post 303.

When the Arnolds entertained the scouts, families and guests at their home a few years ago, he was made an "honorary member" of the Milledgeville Scout group. GIRL SCOUTS MEET

Firm acquires 5 fertilizer plants

The board of directors of the Mid-Ohio Chemical Co., doing business as USS Fertilizers, at Cook Station, announces acquisition of five Custom Farm Service plants located in Jeffersonville, Highland, Cedarville, Unionville Center and London.

USS Fertilizers is a home-owned corporation affiliated with USS Agri-Chemicals, a division of the United States Steel Corp.

The board's announcement said that dry bulk or bag fertilizer, anhydrous ammonia, 28 and 37 per cent nitrogen solution, liquid starter fertilizer, herbicides, and pesticides, soil testing, bulk and bag delivery, truck spreading, custom application of anhydrous ammonia and liquid nitrogen, custom spraying of her-bicides and pesticides, spreaders, ammonia applicators and solution applicators are available at plants.

Racial balance study released

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) - A recommendation that there be a 30 per cent minority representation among students— black or white—in Cincinnati schools by 1976 has been submitted to the city's board of education.

A minority of a 39-member task force that made a survey questioned the report, saying two of three proposals offered are "mandatory versus voluntary. The group's proposal called for minimization of racial isolation by voluntary action.

New building permit

A building permit has been issued by the City of Washington to Chester Dean, 507 Frank St. The permit authorizes the construction of a frame addition to a dwelling. The cost was estimated at $4,000.

"Rising costs are eating us alive," President Frederick R. Eckley said. "Higher prices have become an absolute necessity.

An Ohio Bell request for an acrossthe-board rate hike of about 38 per cent is still pending before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

For the second straight year, however, the company paid dividends exceeding net income to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., its parent firm. Last year's dividends totaled $65.5 million.

Eckley said 1972 income reached $45 million, compared to $55 million in 1971. Revenues totaled $637.8 million last year, up from $603 million in 1971,

The company said operating expenses rose nine per cent last year, from $420 million in 1971 to $460 million.

Light agenda for Council

The agenda for the Wednesday night meeting of Washington C. H. City Council is light, according to Dan Wolford, city manager.

There is no legislation on the agenda. Wolford said, and the meeting will consist mainly of routine reports.

Wolford said he will report on the status of several projects including the replacement of several street signs.

Council will meet at 7 o'clock in the conference room at the city offices.

Theft, vandalism complaints filed

Several thefts and vandalism incidents were investigated by police and sheriff's departments Monday

Paul Holtschulte, manager of Hunt's Trailer Court, Bloomingburg, reported that someone entered the laundromat there and shut off the gas valves. He said that a valve on the water softener was broken and some electric wires were removed.

The entry occurred sometime overnight Feb. 17.

A 10-speed bicycle valued at $75 was stolen from the Washington Senior High School lot Monday afternoon. LeLand McCann told police his son had parked the bicycle there about 3:30 p.m. and it was gone when he returned

Ione Davis, Brock Rd., told sheriff's deputies that two men had entered one of the house trailers on the property and broke a kitchen table after becoming involved in an argument with the tenant. Damage was set at $20.

Lloyd Alexander, Rt. 4, reported that an aluminum scoop shovel was taken from a grain wagon on his farm subpoended sometime over the weekend. The shovel was valued at $9.

Fair Board won't meet

The Fayette County Fair Board, which normally meets the first Monday of every month, will skip the March meeting, Secretary George Finley

He explained that the meeting, which would have been held Monday, was called off when it appeared likely a quorum would not be present. Several of the 13 directors are in Florida and others will be performing in the Lions Club Variety Show Monday and Tuesday nights in the Junior High School auditorium. Besides, Finley added, "there is nothing of importance or urgent on the agenda.'

Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) - Eleven reporters and officials of The Washington Post, The Washington Star-News, The New York Times and Time magazine have been subpoenaed for testimony and notes by Republican attorneys in three civil suits stemming from the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

The suits grew out of the indictment of seven men who were charged with conspiracy, burglary and illegal wiretapping in connection with the break-in June 17, 1972, at the Democratic offices in the Watergate complex. Five of the seven pleaded guilty; the other two were convicted.

Former Democratic party chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien seeks $3.2 million in damages from two of the defendants and from Maurice H. Stans has filed a $5 million countersuit accusing O'Brien of libel, and a $2.5-million suit alleging willful and malicious abuse of

Find Via guilty of coed slaying

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Twenty-eight--year-old traveling musician Larry Joseph Via has been found guilty of first-degree murder in the shooting death of a 19-year-old Ohio University coed last fall.

The Summit County Common Pleas Court jury of seven women and five men took more than 24 hours in three days of deliberations to study the eight days of testimony and some 110 exhibits presented during the trial.

Via, who had taken the stand himself to declare his innocence in the death of Jane Maguire of Washington, Pa., will be sentenced Monday pending a defense motion for a new trial, Judge James V. Barbuto said.

Barbuto sent the jury word late Monday afternoon he was on the verge of declaring a hung jury, but the jury responded by asking for a little more time. About a half hour later, the verdict of guilty was returned.

Paris peace conferees draft pact

PARIS (AP) — Legal experts at the Paris conference on Vietnam were drafting a declaration today to give the peace agreement the moral backing of the conference participants.

The 12 foreign ministers were expected to sign the declaration by the end of the week.

American officials said the conference, which opened Monday, appeared to be approaching a consensus. Stressing their readiness for compromise, Western officials said the ministers may agree to endorse sections of the agreement and pledge their governments to its strict observance.

Meanwhile, the ministers were continuing policy statements made by each delegations. Six ministers, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, The Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh and Canada's Mitchell Sharp spoke Monday.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home and the foreign ministers of North and South Vietnam were among the six speakers scheduled today.

The speeches Monday disclosed wide East-West differences over how to enforce the cease-fire agreement signed on Jan. 27.

Despite the indications that both sides were eager to seek a compromise, Western conference officials said there would be some tough bargaining over the proposed declaration.

Rogers urged the creation of a "simple mechanism" under which the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision could report violations of the cease-fire.

Rogers expressed sympathy with the Canadian demand for an effective reporting procedure. Sharp had warned the conference that Canada would pull out of the commission by April 30 unless such a procedure was established. The agreement calls for international "guarantees" but does not spell out what this means.

NEW YORK (AP) — Erick von Daniken insists that alien astronauts visited the earth in ancient times. To back him up, he has a pair of worldwide best sellers that have recently become paperback phenomena in this country.

Maybe not all the theories in my books are correct," von Daniken said in an interview here Monday. "But there is no doubt that we were visited from outer space long ago."

Von Daniken, 37, a Swiss innkeeper by trade with no formal higher education, wraps an old theory with new words in his books.

The theory is that visitors from other worlds landed on earth in prehistoric times, created the rudiments of human civilization and departed. Recast by von Daniken in the jargon

of contemporary technology, the visitors become astronauts and their vehicles become nuclear rockets. "Chariots of the Gods?" and "Gods

From Outer Space," von Daniken's books, were published in Europe in the late 1960s. Translated into 32 languages, they have now sold more than 20 million copies, according to The Trade News Service, a publishing industry magazine.

The American editions, published in 1970 and 1971, enjoyed relatively good sales. More than one million paperback copies of "Chariots of the Gods?" had been sold at the end of last year.

Early in January, a film based on the books was shown on network television. Sales soared.

In a statement for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's intergovernmental-relations subcommittee, the Kentucky Democrat set the tone for what looms as a three-day Democratic assault on the administration during meetings of the nation's governors.

While Muskie's subcommittee heard criticism similar to that it received last week from a number of mayors, many of the Democratic governors attended a reception given by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert.

Ford declared that Nixon "is shifting the federal deficit to states while increasing the costs of states to subsidize the rest of his budget."

Rather than avoiding a tax increase, the budget "actually increases the most regressive of taxes as evident by increased Medicare charges and costs to be borne by those least able to pay,' the governor said.

Saccharin tests show rat tumors

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration says rats that were fed saccharin in carefully controlled government studies have developed suspicious bladder tumors.

But the agency adds that its scientists have not determined whether the tumors are cancerous, which would force a ban on the only artificial sweetener remaining on the market.

Cyclamates were banned in 1969 under the so-called Delaney Clause in the law prohibiting any food additive that causes cancer in man or animals.

Virgil O. Wodicka, director of FDA's Bureau of Foods, confirmed the preliminary saccharin study results in an interview Monday.

He said the FDA findings will be transmitted to the National Academy of Sciences, which is under contract to evaluate the sweetener's safety and its role in treating certain metabolic

Even if the bladder tumors are found to be malignant, Wodicka said, the cause may be traced to impurities in the saccharin or to "mechanical irritation" resulting from the high levels of the chemical fed to test animals.

'We're not going to take any action until we get a recommendation from the academy," Wodicka said.

Last year the FDA removed saccharin from the list of additives generally recognized as safe, and recommended that the average adult's daily intake be limited to one gram.

One gram is the equivalent of 60 small saccharin tablets, or seven 12ounce bottles of the standard diet soft drink, the FDA said.

Panel wants domestic funds freed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to cut off foreign aid April 30 unless President Nixon releases $4.5 billion approved by Congress for domestic programs.

The committee attached that provision Monday to a bill authorizing $1.55 billion in military aid over the next four months.

The bill, which also prohibits spending of appropriated funds for rehabilitation of North Vietnam without congressional approval, will be ready for Senate floor debate later this week. The measure authorizes military-aid grants to 64 countries.

But the bill would cut off foreign-aid commitments after April 30 unless Nixon allows full spending of appropriated funds for the departments of Agriculture, Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare.

The amendment was sponsored by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of Foreign Relations, on a 9-7 vote along party lines.

As a weapon in the fight against inflation, Nixon is refusing to spend appropriations earmarked for various domestic programs in an attempt to hold down government spending. Both houses of Congress are involved in a battle with the White House over this impoundment practice.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who advocates congressional authority to set spending priorities without item veto by the president, said he voted against the proviso tying foreign aid to domestic spending, on grounds it was an attempt by foreign-aid opponents to kill the program. In a related development, the Senate approved an extension of foreign-aid spending until April 30. The same resolution carries continuing spending authority for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments until the end of the current fiscal year

The spending bill was returned to the House, which had been willing to allow continued expenditures in both areas until June 30.

Totally automated banking relies heavily on television

By JERRY ESTILL

Associated Press Writer NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A New Orleans bank with a goal of being totally automated already handles all teller-customer transactions at two of its branches by closed-circuit television.

Although other banks use television, mostly for operating drive-in windows, International City Bank says it is the first in the nation to have total-television installations and expects eventually to put all its tellers in front of cameras or replace them with automatic machines.

As in other banks, International City's two-way, closec-circuit television system is coupled with pneumatic tubes for moving money and documents between teller and customer. What sets the New Orleans bank apart is the use of the system to replace the traditional walk-up windows in its lobbies.

In a typical installation, a customer with routine business walks to a panel with a 12-inch television screen, a speaker, a button to summon the teller and a hatch to the pneumatic tube. Judge orders Geneva school strike halted

GENEVA, Ohio (AP)-Geneva's 4,000 public school students returned to classrooms today as the city's 180 teachers called off their two-week-old

Ashtabula County Common Pleas Judge Roland Pontius ordered the teachers back to work Monday evening after a lengthy court hearing on the school board's request for a preliminary injunction. Pontius gave the school board until Wednesday morning to reopen schools, but school officials announced about an hour later they planned to reopen the city's six schools this morning.

The Geneva Area Teachers Association waited until after a late night teachers meeting before confirming its members would be back in the classroom for the first time since Feb. 12, however.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration, which freed former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa from prison and then was endorsed by his successor in the 1972 presidential election, has cautioned Hoffa against any attempt to regain power in the giant labor union.

"The government will move quickly to enforce all aspects of the conditional commutation in the event that Mr. Hoffa does not abide by the conditions imposed on him," Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said Monday.

The statement followed newspaper accounts quoting the 60-year-old Hoffa as planning to return to the presidency of his old home local in Detroit if the government would lift the ban against his taking part in any union activity.

Many sources saw this as an opening bid toward eventually winning back the national presidency of the two-millionmember union.

Nixon, in commuting Hoffa's 13 years in prison sentences and freeing him two days before Christmas 1971, attached the condition that Hoffa hold no union office and take no part in labor-management affairs until 1980.

Terms of Hoffa's parole, which are separate from the commutation, expire March 10 and Hoffa has told newsmen he would seek a meeting March 11 with Kleindienst to discuss lifting the 1980 restriction.

"I have informed Mr. Hoffa through his attorney, Morris Shenker, that the conditions set forth in the commutation order are not negotiable. Therefore there is no need for a meeting," Kleindienst said Monday.

Courtroom of the future to be circular, use TV

'courtroom of the future' is being built for a Sacramento law school experiment aimed at boosting security, curbing disruptions, aiding news coverage and making the jury's job

"The practice of law in most courtrooms today is about as modern as performing surgery in a barbershop," says Gordon Schaber, dean of the University of Pacific's McGeorge Law School where the courtroom is scheduled for completion in June.

The $464,000 facility, which Schaber describes as the first of its kind in the nation, will be used for real trials as well as simulated trials for training law students and law officers.

Among its innovations will be desks for jurors, who will be encouraged to take notes. Jurors also will have a closeup look at evidence via nine-inch television screens on their desks and will be able to view videotapes of the trial during deliberations. Other innovations:

—The room will be circular so jurors can sit with their backs to the audience and thus be free from distractions from spectators. News reporters will observe from a special viewing area and from behind one-way glass, "to reduce interference and increase the view.' -Security devices will include

"Even courtrooms built in the late 1960s are obsolete and ill-suited for today's cases. They are often poorly lighted, subject to distracting influences, lacking in proper security and offer few improved means of presenting or preserving evidence," said Schaber, retired presiding judge of Sacramento County Superior Court.

Schaber told an interviewer the main purpose of the new courtroom "will be to train students in the basic skills of litigation."

But it is also intended to serve as a laboratory for testing new designs and procedures for modern courtrooms, he

Stock prices open higher

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock market prices opened higher today as Washington announced the composite index of leading economic indicators rose in January.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials was up nearly a point and advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange took a slim lead over declines.

The Commerce Department announced that the index, which often foreshadows broad movements in the economy, gained 1.2 per cent last month. But it added that the previously reported gain for December was substantially revised downward.

On Monday the Dow slipped more than 12 points before recovering a bit to close down 6.10 at 953.79.

Analysts said most of the decline was due to skittish investor reaction to increases in the bank prime rate to 61/4 per cent approved by the Federal Reserve over the weekend. Many investors feared the jump in interest rates would stifle current business ex-Among the active issues on the Big

Paul Minus said.

Minus said the main argument against the lottery is a monetary one. It would be costly to administer and would only net about one per cent of the state's total budget, he said.

It would also encourage low-income families, "those least able to afford it" to participate in hopes of getting rich quick, he said.

Lottery participants would also be tempted to "play the numbers" because the payoffs are better in the illegal games, Minus said: "People would soon find out."

The task force is planning a twomonth campaign against the lottery. Budget and strategy will be the concern of the first few task meetings, a spokesman said.

Vice chairmen of the task force are Episcopal Bishop John Burt of Cleveland, United Methodist Bishop Francis Kearns of Canton, and Bishop James Malone of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Youngstown.

NEW YORK (AP) — It is understandable that you might have the impression that railroads ceased to be reasons why one line prospers while others declare bankruptcy, is offered by Frank Barton, assistant to Southern's president.

The story of Southern's success

The story of Southern's success begins, said Barton, with the South losing the Civil War. Unlike other vanquished foes, the South was not the recipient of federal generosity. During the Reconstruction, he said, very little reconstruction was undertaken.

It was during this time that the nation's basic rail system was built to its present size. Because industry was largely situated in the Northeast, rails proliferated there. And because the Midwest and West were growing, lines were extended there.

In the East and Midwest, the picture is different. Industrial and traffic patterns have changed, and now there is much unneeded track. In fact, he claims, between 10 and 25 per cent of all rail mileage in the country is unneeded.

Not so in the South. While it was considered a poor investment at the turn of the century, it is now growing faster than any other geographical region of the country, much faster than the Northeast.

Barton wants it understood that

Barton wants it understood that history alone is not responsible for the Southern's success. "We keep most of our earnings in the business, and we concentrate on railroading rather than unrelated fields," he says.

Cost control, plant modernization, training programs and modern marketing techniques contribute, he maintains, and he cites the example of "Big John" to illustrate the latter.

Big John is a 100-ton covered hopper that cut 60 per cent off the line's grain shipping costs. Protests by water carriers delayed use of the cars for four years until a Supreme Court decision cleared the way.

Trend to smaller cars

There is little evidence that America is getting over its love affair with the automobile, though some profess to see indications of this. There is substantial evidence of a trend away from dependence solely on big cars with excessive horsepower and a king-size thirst for Recognition of this came the other day from rather an unexpected source, a General Motors executive. Thomas M. Fisher, administrative assistant to GM's vice president for environmental, activities, told the Arizona Safety Council he foresaw a trend toward smaller cars.

Noting that such vehicles have smaller engines but lack the roominess of their big brothers,

Fisher observed, "We're an energydependent economy, and the steps we have to take to protect the energy may not be to our liking." As a general thing that probably will prove to be true; Americans are used to being profligate with energy, and may find it hard to adjust to comparative austerity.

It has already become evident, however, that many Americans enjoy getting about in small and medium-sized cars. They find such cars adequate for their needs, and they relish the savings in fuel consumption and maintenance.

The way is being paved, as it were, for a time when small cars become the norm. As a society we may discover collectively what small car owners are finding out individually: it is quite feasible to enjoy life without a a highway behemoth.

That will fit right in with the need to conserve our resources by using less metal and rubber for cars, and consuming petroleum at a slower

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

It all works fine

The one unforgivable sin that the United States commits - at least in the eyes of the intellectuals - is that it works.' Thus a distinguished European statesman put it during my recent trip. "For example," he continued, " a few hundred kilometers from here (Zurich) Italians and Germans are busy tearing down streets signs. It seemed like an intelligent compromise in an area contested by Austria and Italy to put the signs in both langauges, but extremists at both ends want all or nothing. Belgium has the same problem.

"Do you realize," he added, "that the Bretons have been engaged in some violent separatist activities in France? And the basques too? The Bretons are up in arms because under French law they cannot give their children ethnic names (Breton is a version of Gaelic). It's rather as though American law forbade Negroes from giving their children Muslim first names. And I hardly need to mention Ulster."

"WHAT YOU Americans have, without realizing it," he concluded, "is one of the most stable societies in history. You absorb and thus neutralize your potentially disruptive elements: a movement that in Europe would become an ideological cult becomes in the United States a club that meets

After the past decade, I confess that my fundamental optimism about the United States has on occasion been shaken a bit. The combination of the civil rights movement, the upsurge of youth, and the anti-war militancy often seemed to be bringing the nation close to the abyss.

One reassuring thing was that the prophets of "revolution" and "disintegration" were intellectuals whom I had known for years and their compasses were locked on True South. That is, in specific terms, if they predicted X, one could invariably count on the occurrence of anti-X. But first in Washington and then on the campus the noise-level was horrendous: it was like being in a steel drum being hit with baseball bats.

This discussion with an impartial observer who spent years as a diplomat in the United States, was therefore reassuring. When, for instance, I raised the question of turmoil in American colleges and universities, he asked me, "How many universities do your leftists control?"

Now, although various elements of the counter-culture have gained considerable power within certain schools, the correct answer is "none." They may have a veto power, they may

bers insane and send despairing administrators off to religious retreats. But no university is in fact controlled by the leftists. He chucked and said: "I could name you a dozen in Europe all state schools, of course - which are now the private property of the ex-

lowest inflation rate of any major industrial power, the student riots in France made Berkeley look like a fraternity prank, Sweden has the highest venereal disease rate going, and the drug crisis exists across the board. "And," he noted, "we have had no war in Vietnam."

As I have suggested here before, we Americans have a fondness or flagellation, a rather likeable characteristic. Yet, ever so often it is worthwhile to stand back a bit and look at what we have accomplished in a positive way.

There is much left to be done, but if we look around the only world we have, we can take some modest pride in our accomplishments.

With the hailing of reporters for refusing to disclose confidentiality of sources — with two notable cases here in California — state courts are beginning to close their doors to the coverage of trials that would normally be open. Those most concerned with keeping the channels open describe it as a contagion of suppression.

What is most impressive in the great gray cliff of the Federal Courts Building here is the power of the federal government as it has been marshalled in this case. It is all there the FBI, the Department of Justice, the top military — felt if not seen in the subdued aqueous light, the careful silence of Courtroom No. 9.

AS A manifestation of that power the defense has just charged the prosecution with deliberately withholding a document that would have refuted testimony on the damage done to national security by release of the Pentagon study of decision-making during the Vietnam war. The document was an affidavit by an analyst for the Central Intelligence Agency stating that figures giving Communist strength at the time of the Tet offensive in 1968 had been fabricated in December of 1967.

Lt. Gen. William G. Depuy, a government witness, had previously testified that releasing the Joint Chiefs of Staff study of the Communist order of battle would have helped Hanoi.

and Russo are convicted on one or longest and most-divisive of all wars more of the 15 counts of the indictment are summoned out of the past by the defense and the prosecution.

The record piles up in a whole library of volumes. At 3 a.m. each day the transcript of the day before is available. The young volunteers working for defense counsel collect it and comb it over preparatory to more of the same.

The cost is astronomical. At last report the defense was $60,000 in the hole. Chief Defense Counsel Leonard B. Bouding has three associates and Russo has two lawyers. A small army of researchers and secretaries does the spade work. Money to foot the bill is raised by a variety of fund-raising devices always falling behind the need.

The prosecution having presented the case against the defendants in two months, the defense now takes over. Six to seven weeks will be taken up with a procession of witnesses who will testify not only that no damage was done to the national security but that Ellsberg and Russo served the right to know in exposing the bland optimism of the decision-makers in public as contrasted with their continuous escalation of the war.

THE SERVICE to the nation in the revelation of the Pentagon Papers, the defense will contend, is to show the catastrophe of secret and private presidential wars — in this case an unwinnable war that divided the nation, alienated world opinion and threatened at times a third world holocaust. In a sense the verdict will be passed on the war itself, those who prosecuted it and those who opposed it.

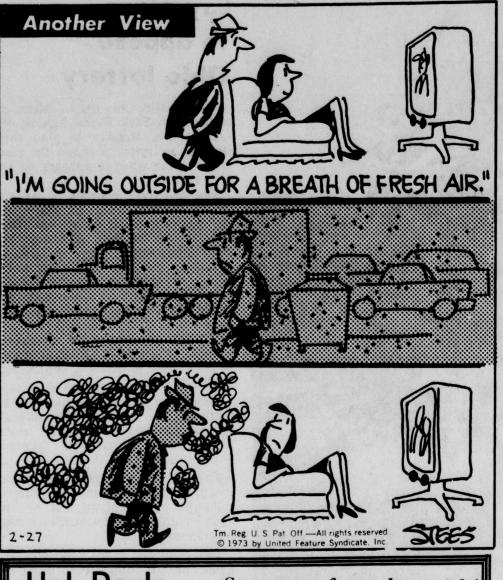

Week after week, month after month the jury sits in impassive silence listening to technicalities of the law that seem at times to confuse even the battery of lawyers on opposing sides of the counsel table. Ten women and two men — the latter is one black and one Chicano — are average citizens such as jury panels turn up . . Judge William Matthew Byrne, Jr., is crisp, matter of fact, almost invariably overruling the objections of defense counsel to the interrogation of chief prosecutor David R. Nissen.

HOW THESE 12 men and women can separate the emotions of the war, their prejudices whether dove or hawk, from the allegation of criminality is the question that will press harder as the day of summation and then decision draws nearer.

The prosecution holds to the narrow line of criminality, making out the defendants, both with scholarly attainments and research backgrounds, as thieves and saboteurs.

In the weeks ahead the defense will try to paint a portrait of men motivated by stern conscience to reveal to the nation the duplicity and deceit that generated the tragedy of Vietnam. The fate of the two individuals to one side, the verdict when it comes can only accentuate the divisiveness which is one of the tragic consequences of the

Dear ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Some of my best friends are Jews, but I can't figure out

Once I went to a Jewish funeral service and I wore no hat. (I don't even own one.) After I entered, a little man ran after me and offered me a little skull cap, indicating that I should wear it. Of course I put it on. I looked around and noticed that all the other men were wearing one.

On another occasion I attended a Jewish wedding which took place in another temple, and this time nobody wore anything on their heads. Are Jews supposed to wear something on their heads for funerals, but not for weddings? How about for regular Sabbath services? What's the rule? Please set me straight. DEAR CURIOUS: Covering the head is an old Jewish custom. During the course of Jewish history, especially in Western Europe, and now in North America, many Jews have felt that this custom is no longer required; therefore, differing patterns of ritual apply. Among Orthodix (the most religious)

Jews, the skull cap (or "yarmelke") is worn not only for prayer but for all the daily activities. Conservative Jews observe this custom only during prayer. However, with in the reformed movement, various practices are observed, depending upon the particular custom of the congregation. DEAR ABBY: I am an executive in my early 50s. My wife died three years ago and ours was a beautiful marriage. I am not looking for another wife, but I do enjoy female companionship occasionally. A friend has a secretary who caught my eye. She is 26 and a really beautiful girl who dresses in wonderful taste. I asked her for a date, and took her to one of the finest places for dinner. She was dressed like a queen and I was proud to be seen with her. I offered her a cocktail and she said, "I'll have a

When I realized she wasn't joking, I ordered her a beer, which she guzzled in nothing flat. When it came time for dinner she asked me to order for her, so I ordered a broiled lobster. When it was served she asked me how to eat "the thing." (She had never seen one eaten before.) She made an awful mess of it, and threw the shells all over the table.

During the evening, some terribly vulgar language came out of that beautiful mouth. I was shocked. The reason I'm writing is to tell you this was the third such disappointment I've had in a month!

What's the matter with the young women of today, Abby? Are they typical? Sign me.

NOT THAT LONESOME IN

DEAR NOT: No. But you might have better luck with ladies nearer your own

DEAR ABBY: Last year, when my son was three years old and attending preschool, he came home with his little face all black and blue. I asked him what happened and he told me the teacher did it.

I called the teacher and she flatly denied it. She said he had fallen and hit his face on a chair. Now my son is in the same class this year, and I have just been told by an eyewitness that my son was telling me the truth. That teacher did hit him in the face and caused those bruises! And it seems that mine isn't the only child this teacher has left marks on. Abby, what would you do if it were

New delivery service here

Tom Brude, 706 N. North St., announced Tuesday the formation of his own company to fulfill what he believes to be a local commercial need for a prompt, dependable delivery service in the community

The new venture is called "Package Delivery Service" - or "PDS" for short — and Brude will deliver small to medium sized packages. He also will perform other special services for commercial and retail establishments within the city.

Brude has spent the past 21 years in sales and technical aervice with the Plastics Department of American Cyanamid C.o in the Southeast, the Southwest and, more recently, in Ohio and Pennsylvania

"Customer service is the most important aspect of any business," Brude said, adding that "I am convinced that a service capability never before offered here will find a ready response among the businessmen of the community - and will enable them to provide an even greater service capability to their customers."

The policy of PDS precludes the expenditure of time on service outside the city, he said.

PDS will begin operations March 5 and initially will have two vehicles in service. Mrs. Brude, the former Mary Louise Maddux, of Washington C. H., will serve as coordinator and "backup" in the business

Small counties lose people, judges lose pay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Inflation population of 10,274. or no inflation, judges in 16 Ohio counties are taking pay cuts this year. The reason: All 16 counties lost population in the last census.

The result: Sixteen unhappy jurists, already among the lower paid judges in the nation. Ohio ranks sixth in population, 15th in per capita income, and 46th in judicial salaries.

committee plans to cut weeks off the discussions about hiking Ohio judicial salaries. The report had originally been scheduled for July.

Ohio common pleas and probate judges are paid both by the state — a flat sum — and by counties — a graduated sum based on population. In four Ohio counties, the state contributes $16,000 a year, because Adams, Henry, Morrow and Wyandot counties have consolidated their courts under one judge. All the other 84 counties get a flat $11,000 a year. Harrison and Carroll counties plan to consolidate. When they do, the one judge in each county will draw the extra $5,000 from the state.

"We've cried to get the smaller counties to consolidate," said a source close to the state Supreme Court, "but with not much success. They want to protect the jobs.'

Judges in the large metropolitan counties get about 44 per cent more than colleagues in small counties. A common pleas judge in Cuyahoga County, the state's largest, gets $26,000 a year. In Vinton County, smallest in the state, the common pleas judge draws the minimum, $14,500 a year.

Cuyahoga County had a 1970 population of 1,721,300, up 73,405 from 1960. Vinton County had a 1970 population of 9,420 compared to a 1960

Velasco recovering

LIMA (AP) — Peruvian President Juan Velasco has responded well to treatment following emergency surgery for a ruptured aneurysm on an abdominal aorta, hospital spokesmen said Sunday.

Judge Darrell Hottle of Highland County is one of the judges drawing less because of a population drop. Reasoning behind the population formula, he said, was that judges in larger areas had heavier caseloads, more difficult cases and higher living

"I've served in the largest and This may explain why a legislative smallest communities," said Judge Hottle, "and the workload is not that much different. They have more people helping in the larger places.'

And, even by moonlighting, Judge Hottle said, the small county judge can't make up the difference, although they may be assigned to hear cases in other counties with additional pay. "If you ran your regular docket, and served every working day outside the county with per diem pay," Judge Hottle said, "you would still get about $2,000 less than judges in the larger

There are 22 Ohio counties smaller than Highland, where Judges Hottle and Richard Davis draw down $16,219.28 a year after the cut. They drew $16,348.88 before the cut.

Vinton County's judge, for instance, would draw only $12.695 based strictly on the population formula, but the floor for small county judges is about 56 per cent of the maximum made by the biggest judge.

Camp Fire Potlatches set for March 13 and 20

The dates for the annual potlatches were announced when the Paint Valley Council Camp Fire Board met Monday night in the CF office. The Bluebird Potlatch will be March 13 and the one for Camp Fire Girls on March 20, both to be held at Mahan Hall.

Frank Snaderson, president of the board, conducted the business session. Those present were Mrs. Sanderson, Floyd Cotner, Dick Maddux, Dick Immell, Miss Sandy Fackler, Mrs. Charles Zinn, Mrs. Fred James, Mrs. Ralph Tate, Mrs. Gene Sagar, Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. Ed Fisher, Mrs.

Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Allen McClung, Mrs. Don Wood, and Mrs. Donald Moore.

It was announced that Mrs. Wheat will conduct training sessions for leaders from 7 until 9 p.m. April 2 in First Presbyterian Church. Nursery facilities will be available.

The next leaders' meeting will be March 27 at Grace United Methodist Church.

On March 28, a conference will be held in Columbus for CF leaders. Plans were tentatively made for three or four

Miss Christopher WCTU hostess

Miss Marian Christopher extended the hospitality of her home to members of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. John Case opened the meeting with devotions.

Mrs. Cloyce Copley conducted the meeting and a moment of silence was observed for the late Miss Ruby Mc-Bride, a long and devoted member of WCTU. A letter from the VA Hospital at Chillicothe, thanking the group for the gifts for veterans for the holidays, was read. It was reported that most of the yearly dues have been paid. Mrs. Eldon Bethards received an invitation inviting the group to a one-day convention to be held in the Baptist Church March 1 at Hillsboro. The theme of the day will be "Share in Prayer Circles."

Miss Mabel Briggs, program leader, was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Hays and Miss Christopher. Miss Briggs opened the program by reading a poem "February Flowers," and Mrs. Hays read an article "Students Asking for Liquor in Dorms." Miss Briggs discussed the drug problem. A Columbus high school senior estimates that 25 per cent of high school students use drugs and that all of the high schools in Columbus have the same problem, Miss Briggs said. She also declared the wine industry is doubling and the housewife who is serving something dainty should remember that wines contain 12 to 22 per cent alcohol.

Miss Christopher read an article that said the "only way to be responsible about drinking is not to drink at all." A dessert course was served by the

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Homer Garringer.

'Dress-up experiment at college

WILMINGTON - Judy Brown, a Wilmington College senior, made her way across campus wearing an attractive blue dress. A pair of male students did a double-take and one yelled, "She's got legs!"

Arriving at the cafeteria, she moved along the slide rail placing cereal and milk on her tray with unconscious effort. Proceeding to the corner table as usual she joined a group of bluejeaned friends where the normal breakfast conversation was in progress. Suddenly it stopped. A few looks were exchanged and then a classmate broke the silence, "Why the dress?" Another added, "Susie Sorority?" This was a beginning.

Three more days of "dressing-up" followed the initial confrontation - all part of an experiment carried out recently by Mrs. Cheryl B. Miller's sociological theory class.

Students of the class agreed to wear dress apparel for four consecutive days without revealing the reason to fellow students and professors. The experiment gave supporting evidence to an earlier classroom theory outlined by Mrs. Miller, assistant professor of "The way you dress usually has an effect on the way people react to you,"

And so it was found by the students involved. Rob Denson, a junior from S. Orange, described his participating in a personal way. "When I appeared in the student union wearing a sport coat I felt terribly conspicuous. Sort of phony." Continuing he added, "It effected not only my social image, but my self image as well.' Judy Goldman, a senior from Min-neapolis, speaks of the unifying force that the experiment had on the class. "When we would see one another in a crowd, we would often give a signal. It would be a nod or a wink-something to show that we shared the secret. It drew us closer toegther."

Some students recall positive reactions anf flattering compliments, directly resulting from their new manner of dress. Others mentioned negative responses. One girl described how her triends began to exclude her from various discussions. "I guess they thought I wouldn't approve," she ex-

Another student tells of how her roommate, unaware of the experiment, decided to wear a dress on the third

The various reactions depended, of course, on the people involved; but, all of the participating students agreed that the changing dress style put a new twist in their daily lives. One student labeled it a refreshing change; but, when it was over most were content to loosen their neckties or exchange high heels for time-worn sneakers.

For a different salad dressing for a fruit salad, beat a little salad oil and lemon juice into cranberry jelly. Finely grated onion (pulp and juice)

may be added. When hard-cooked eggs are cooked too long or at too high a temperature, they may have a dark ring of color

The battle for control of trumps is often the most important single factor in the play of a hand. The defenders concentrate on trying to run declarer out of trumps, while declarer bends every effort to guard his trump position in order to stop the defenders from cashing their side winners.

Here is a typical case. Assume West

Declarer ruffs and leads the A-K of trumps, learning of the 4-1 trump division. South is now in serious trouble and, in fact, can no longer make the contract against best defense. Let's say he takes two more rounds of trumps and leads a diamond to the jack, won by East with the ace.

East thereupon returns a club, forcing South to ruff with his last trump. Declarer cashes his diamonds, but must then lead a heart. East takes the ace, returns a club, and South is defeated because he lost control of

Now let's go back to South's play at trick one and have him play the seven of clubs from dummy instead of the

In that case, if West leads another club, he cannot do so without establishing a club trick in dummy and this, in turn, prevents the defenders from effectively shortening declarer's trumps. As a result, South eventually makes ten tricks consisting of six trumps and four tricks in the side

If West decides to abandon clubs, after winning the opening lead with the queen, there is no other suit he can play to stop the contract. The effect of ducking the opening lead is that declarer keeps trumps firmly under control and so wends his way home with ten tricks.

another wanted chunky peanut butter. By day, they were jurors in the bribery trial of federal Judge Otto Kerner and his longtime associate, Theodore J. Isaacs. At night and on weekends, the seven women and five men were the concern of General Manager David H. Salene of the Sheraton Inn-O'Hare South, where they were sequestered more than a month.

Salene, 31, a 12-year veteran of the hotel business, found that his tenants posed problems not normally caused by overnight guests.

One woman realized she had left her chill-prone parrot at home. A federal marshal drove her back to get it, but she was not satisfied.

"He's catching cold," she told Salene. "That room is full of chills. I know he's cold because he told me." To combat boredom, jurors were dining rooms and, on occasion, were taken out for a meal, Salene said. Despite the varied cuisine, jurors made special requests.

But another marshal's purchase was not as helpful, Salene recalled. When a jar of peanut butter was taken to the juror who wanted it, the man said: 'This is creamy peanut butter. I don't eat that. All I eat is chunky peanut butter.

Kerner and Isaacs were convicted Feb. 19 in U.S. District Court of conspiracy, bribery, fraud and income tax evasion in connection with a race-track stock transaction while Kerner was governor of Illinois from 1961 to 1968.

"The analysts are now thinking that a record stem mainly from "intense pressure of demand for sheets and strip, although orders for plates and structural shapes-products that have been in light demand-are reported to be increasing."

It added that producers are booking sheet orders for shipment as far ahead as next summer.

"The high rate of mill operations is reflected in raw steel production," the magazine said. "At some plants, raw steel output is at capacity levels. At other plants, production would be at capacity if equipment repairs weren't an interference."

Industry Week estimated raw steel output last week at 2,885,000 net tons. It said the output in the week ended Feb. 17 was 2,883,000 tons, an increase of 19.3 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Prices of scrap, a raw material for steelmaking, are being supported by the high rate of steel production. Industry Week's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steelmaking scrap was at $49.17 per gross ton last week compared with the preceding week's birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

(March 21 to April 20) A hunch could pay off now especially where career matters are concerned. But be sure you are seeing persons and situations in a realistic light.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)

Don't let a moody or emotional person get you down now. Maintain and promote your self-esteem and stress your innately optimistic side. It may not be easy, but it will be necessary. GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Try to have a talk with individuals important to your aims. A bit of diplomatic maneuvering could have fine results. But avoid intrigue. CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You should now receive some information which clarifies a financial situation. It may not be all you hoped for, but it will be valuable because it finally gets to the core of truth.

(July 24 to Aug. 23) A new type of work assignment should make your day more interesting than usual. On the personal side, an unexpected gift or invitation will delight you.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept 23.) A good day to contact the opposition and see if you can work out a satisfactory compromise. Be realistic, though, and don't give too much just to get matters off your agenda.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Stellar influences continue to favor creative interests and stimulate your ingenuity. Also, a good day for seeking favors - especially in mid-morning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may be given some new responsibilities. Don't give way to anxiety. Take each matter in turn, handling essentials first. The rest will fall into place. SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Expend energies wisely. There's a tendency now to overtax yourself. Your talent for carrying out assignments against big odds can be cleverly used. CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Be alert to schemers and those offering dubious propositions. Don't allow yourself to be taken in by rosy promises, no matter how convincing the promoter may be. AQUARISU

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't disregard little warning signals. Keep your imagaination controlled in work and business deals, Look in the section in which your in all areas. There's a tendency now to run out of bounds.

> PISCES FOR WEDNESDAY, FEB. 28 (Feb. 20 to March 20)

As with Capricorn, you, too, may encounter the deceptive and the unscupulous. Be alert, and don't forsake principles.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly idealistic, a true humanitarian in all your impulses and extremely tolerant toward your fellowman. All of these qualities fit you for work in social service or welfare institutions; also contribute to what could be an outstanding career in medicine or nursing. Your personality is a magnetic one and you are a great lover of the beautiful in life. You could excel as a writer, singer, musician, architect or teacher. Also, having a strong religious bent, you may choose the ministry as a career, in which case you could make a brilliant and inspiring preacher.

Lester L. Coleman, M.D. Herpes Zoster Not Congenital

Both my mother and father have had, in the last two years, severe attacks of shingles.

Is it possible that I may have inherited a tendency to this condition? I worry about it because I know how much they suffered.

Mrs. E. S., Maine Dear Mrs. S.:

Shingles, or "herpes zoster," is an acute infection of the nerves of the central nervous system. It is caused by one of many types of viruses. This condition is not a congenital one and you should have no fears that you might have inherited any tendency to developing it. It is probably purely coincidental that this painful disorder occurred to both your parents within two years.

Shingles rarely occurs in the young, and far more frequently occurs past the age of 40.

One of its strange aspects is an eruption on the skin, which usually follows a distinct line around the chest, the waist, and the face

One of the characteristics of shingles is that neuralgic pains may persist for a very long time. It is understandable that this may cause concern, but with patience and drugs the distress can be

Today the use of cortisone and AC-TH, in addition to large doses of vitamin B12, reduces the severity and duration of shingles.

When is it necessary to wash out the sinuses? Is it true that when once they are washed out they must then always be washed out?

Mr. T. F., Ky.

Dear Mr. G.: It is a total misconception to believe that when once sinuses are washed out they must always be washed out.

The sinuses, especially the antra on each side of the nose, can become infected and can accumulate a large amount of pus. If pus is present, it must be evacuated. This is no different from emptying an abscess anywhere in the

The antra are emptied of that pus by irrigation. The irrigation itself does not mean that this procedure must again or ever be repeated unless infection persists or returns

All sinuses are lined by mucous membrane, similar to the lining of the Inflammation and infection occur in the sinuses. Infected material frequently empties itself through a tiny tube that normally carries air in and out of the nose.

When this becomes blocked by infection or pus, irrigation becomes necessary. Irrigation can be performed by puncture or through the natural opening into the sinuses.

The use of steam inhalations tends to promote drainage of the infected

In Focus Charlie Pensyl Take a look at the calendar. See what I mean? And I bet you haven't put together those slide shows of last year's vacation yet, not to mention all the other photographic fun you planned to do during the winter months. The slides from last summer's trips are still in the boxes they came back in. Now is the time to get them out and put them into the proper order in the projection trays. Get them in a sequence that tells a story. Start the show with some of your best slides. Then be sure to end the show with more of your best slides; 'cause people are most impressed with the first few slides they see in a show and then the last few. Keep that in mind.

You may want to add music or sound effects to your slide show. Do it! Don't just think about it. Make your slide show something outstanding. Any idiot can show a bunch of slides of their vacation and then stand there by the projector and say "Now this slide shows the Grand Canyon from the North Rim". Look, dad, if the slide is so poor that the viewer can't tell it's the Grand Canyon trade in your photographic gear for a speed boat. And if you can't put more variety in your slide presentation than that you better get into the classes at CKFN or take up knitting. It's embarrassing to turn up the lights after your slide show and find nothing but empty chairs where your audience had been sitting. But they just won't sit around to be tortured by that same old trite stuff. Even CBS Television is better than that. But not much.

The "Nix on OSHA" committee is making some headway and it is looking like there will soon be a bill in congress to get rid of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. If we can get enough letters in to Washington I'm sure OSHA will soon be just a bad dream. If you haven't stopped in the shop for your free pamphlet on OSHA please do so and get the story on this thing. It affects you.

Fair skies dominant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Fair weather settled over most of the nation today except for rain on both coasts and isolated activity inland.

Gale warnings were posted for the Oregon and northern California coast. Scattered showers on the central and northern Pacific Coast moved into the intermountain region, but rainfall generally was less than an inch.

Rain also soaked areas from South Carolina to New Jersey and in the northern part was expected to turn to snow. A heavy-snow watch was issued for the District of Columbia and parts of surrounding states.

A few snow flurries whirled about the central Appalachians, and occasional light snow dusted the northern Mississippi Valley region.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 13 at Houlton, Maine, to 64 at Key

FUNERAL SERVICE

Funeral services were held Monday, at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H.; for Tom Arnold, a former Milledgeville resident.

While living in Milledgeville, although they had no children, he was very much interested in the Milledgeville Boy Scout Troop 303 and Explorer Post 303.

When the Arnolds entertained the scouts, families and guests at their home a few years ago, he was made an "honorary member" of the Milledgeville Scout group. GIRL SCOUTS MEET

Firm acquires 5 fertilizer plants

The board of directors of the Mid-Ohio Chemical Co., doing business as USS Fertilizers, at Cook Station, announces acquisition of five Custom Farm Service plants located in Jeffersonville, Highland, Cedarville, Won't meet Unionville Center and London.

USS Fertilizers is a home-owned corporation affiliated with USS Agri-Chemicals, a division of the United States Steel Corp.

The board's announcement said that dry bulk or bag fertilizer, anhydrous ammonia, 28 and 37 per cent nitrogen solution, liquid starter fertilizer, herbicides, and pesticides, soil testing, bulk and bag delivery, truck spreading, custom application of anhydrous ammonia and liquid nitrogen, custom spraying of herbicides and pesticides, spreaders, ammonia applicators and solution applicators are available at plants.

Racial balance study released

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) - A recommendation that there be a 30 per cent minority representation among students- black or white-in Cincinnati schools by 1976 has been submitted to the city's board of education.

A minority of a 39-member task force that made a survey questioned the report, saying two of three proposals offered are "mandatory versus vo-

The group's proposal called for minimization of racial isolation by voluntary action.

New building permit

A building permit has been issued by the City of Washington to Chester Dean, 507 Frank St. The permit authorizes the construction of a frame addition to a dwelling. The cost was estimated at $4,000.

"Rising costs are eating us alive," President Frederick R. Eckley said. "Higher prices have become an absolute necessity.

An Ohio Bell request for an acrossthe-board rate hike of about 38 per cent is still pending before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

For the second straight year, however, the company paid dividends exceeding net income to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., its parent firm. Last year's dividends totaled $65.5 million.

Eckley said 1972 income reached $45 million, compared to $55 million in 1971. Revenues totaled $637.8 million last year, up from $603 million in 1971, he said.

The company said operating expenses rose nine per cent last year, from $420 million in 1971 to $460 million.

Light agenda for Council

The agenda for the Wednesday night meeting of Washington C. H. City Council is light, according to Dan Wolford, city manager.

There is no legislation on the agenda, Wolford said, and the meeting will consist mainly of routine reports.

Wolford said he will report on the status of several projects including the replacement of several street signs. Council will meet at 7 o'clock in the conference room at the city offices.

Theft, vandalism complaints filed

Several thefts and vandalism incidents were investigated by police and sheriff's departments Monday.

Paul Holtschulte, manager of Hunt's Trailer Court, Bloomingburg, reported that someone entered the laundromat there and shut off the gas valves. He said that a valve on the water softener was broken and some electric wires were removed.

The entry occurred sometime overnight Feb. 17.

A 10-speed bicycle valued at $75 was stolen from the Washington Senior High School lot Monday afternoon. LeLand McCann told police his son had parked the bicycle there about 3:30 p.m. and it was gone when he returned

Ione Davis, Brock Rd., told sheriff's deputies that two men had entered one and broke a kitchen table after becoming involved in an argument with the tenant. Damage was set at $20. Lloyd Alexander, Rt. 4, reported that an aluminum scoop shovel was taken from a grain wagon on his farm subpoenced sometime over the weekend. The shovel was valued at $9.

Fair Board

The Fayette County Fair Board, which normally meets the first Monday of every month, will skip the March meeting, Secretary George Finley announces.

He explained that the meeting, which would have been held Monday, was called off when it appeared likely a quorum would not be present. Several of the 13 directors are in Florida and others will be performing in the Lions Club Variety Show Monday and Tuesday nights in the Junior High School auditorium. Besides, Finley added, "there is nothing of importance or urgent on the agenda.'

Find Via guilty of coed slaying

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-eight--year-old traveling musician Larry Joseph Via has been found guilty of first-degree murder in the shooting death of a 19-year-old Ohio University coed last fall.

The Summit County Common Pleas Court jury of seven women and five men took more than 24 hours in three days of deliberations to study the eight days of testimony and some 110 exhibits presented during the trial.

Via, who had taken the stand himself to declare his innocence in the death of Jane Maguire of Washington, Pa., will be sentenced Monday pending a defense motion for a new trial, Judge James V. Barbuto said.

Barbuto sent the jury word late Monday afternoon he was on the verge of declaring a hung jury, but the jury responded by asking for a little more time. About a half hour later, the verdict of guilty was returned.
